

Story #7: The Horse Ran Away with the Boy.

Peter Mulligan had a new horse and it ran away with him. They rode off into the sunset. We’ve never seen either of them again.

Some think they went to Las Vegas to gamble and live-it-up. Some think they went to the ocean to live on a houseboat, and go catfishing for a living. Some think they went to Canada and searched for the Sasquatch (who will tell you, by the way, that they didn’t... or at least that they didn’t find him.). Some think they went to the Horse Academy where a boy could learn to be a professional cowboy, and a horse could learn to be his trusty steed.

Personally, I think they fell into the canyon down at the end of the road. Just like all the other boys who got new horses.
